ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce
HON. A. F. BYRD,
of Clark County, as a candidate for Congress from this, the 10th District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FRIDAY MAY 25.

CORRESPONDENCE.
TURKEY.

J. Terry is on the sick list.

Mrs. Luther Little was here Saturday.

W. B. May, of North Fork, was here Saturday.

Miss Ruth C. Terry visited Mrs.
Lizzie Terry last week.

Isaac Terry, Sr., is visiting Mrs.
Belle Terry and family.

Boone Terry, of Cope Branch, was at Turkey Saturday.

Geo. Turner, of Canoe, was here on business last Saturday.

John Caudill made a business trip to Booneville last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlen Griffith visited the family of W. M. N.
Terry Sunday.

Dr. A. M. Glass, of Booneville, was calling on the sick at this place Monday.

Mrs. Emily Terry, of Jett's Creek, visited Mrs. E. F. Terry last Saturday.

NED.

Katie Combs is getting some better of her chronic illness.

Deputy Sheriff Flint Davis made a visit in this vicinity and executed several warrants.

John H. and S. H. Combs conducted religious services at the mouth of Cockrill's fork Sunday.

John Grigsby collected all his neighbors last Monday for the purpose of piling some logs in his classroom.

Francis, wife of John Francis, is now expected to recover.

The locusts are very noisy in this vicinity. They have a "w" on their wings; which the people think indicates war.

EVERSOLE.

Begley is quite sick with fever.

Reynolds visited his sister, Mrs. Regina Jett, Sunday.

There are forty houses being erected in Boxtown, near L. C.
Rose's.

In the case of William Osborn, charged with killing Walker Wilson, the jury disagreed, and he was allowed bond in the sum of $3,000.

We learn that the Kentucky river will be obstructed at Flint after the 6th of June. All men who expect to run rafts will take due notice of same.

Some one has said when the whip will be heard you may listen for Rev. M. C. Taylor somewhere. He was seen and heard both at Meadow Creek Sunday.

John M. Rose, of Le Rose, was quietly married to Miss Muttie Shepherd, of Booneville, last Sunday afternoon at the home of Baltinger Ledford. We wish them a long and happy life.

BOONEVILLE.

Circuit court closed here Saturday and Judge Faulkner and Commonwealth's Attorney Lewis left for London, where the Laurel circuit court convenes next Monday. The grand jury was in session five days and returned over 100 indictments during the time.

Dudley Hocker was indicted, charged with breaking in the store
house of John Gilbert, on Buffalo, and plead guilty and was sent up for one year.

The trial of William Osborn, charged with the murder of deputy sheriff Walker D. Wilson, last November, resulted in a hung jury.
It will be remembered that at the time of the killing Osborn left this county and a reward of $400 was offered for his return and he was captured by the Sheriff of Menifee county. Osborn will be placed in the Richmond jail for safekeeping.

The contested election case for the office of Sheriff of H. H. Rice vs. A. M. Neely, was tried and decided in favor of Rice. The court recounted the ballots of Cow Creek precinct, which precinct was contested, and by his count he elected Rice by 17 votes, whereas, by the returns Neely had been counted in by 1. Neely will supersede the judgment and appeal the case. Rice, in addition to being adjudged Sheriff, fed
a large number of people for dinner. YALLER BRITCHES.

No Change of Time on the L. &
A. Railroad.

On account of the prevailing impression that a change of time would occur, on the L. & A. R. R. about June 1st, I desire to announce there will be no change whatever in the present running of trains for the summer.

There will also be no regular scheduled Sunday service, as formerly, during the months of June, July, August and September.
It is the intention of the company to run a number of Sunday excursions
during these months to different points on our line, as well as to Cincinnati and Louisville, due notice of which will be given in hand bills and through these columns. For any further information, call on or address any local agent, or

To Keep Bread Fresh.
In Swiss and German farmhouses,
where the baking takes place once a fortnight or certainly at fairly long intervals, such a thing as unpleasantly stale bread is almost unknown. It is put away in a peculiar manner, which tends to preserve its freshness. Sprinkle flour freely into an empty flour sack, and into this pack the loaves, being careful to have the top crusts of two loaves touching. Where they have to lie bottom to bottom sprinkle flour between them. Tie up the sack and hang it up in an airy place—not against a wall, but so that it can swing. The day before the loaf is wanted take it out, brush off the flour and stand it in the cellar overnight. In this way bread remains edible for three or four weeks.

A Modest Ambition.

The Hon. Mr. Sweet was making friends with Johnny, his host's son.
"And how old are you?" he asked.
"I'm five," said Johnny.
"Ah! Quite a little man! And what are you going to be?" questioned
Mr. Sweet, who has been a senator so many years that he now believes that he selected his own career in the cradle and that all infants do likewise.

"I'm going to be six," Johnny returned, with conviction.

Just Escaped.

An English newspaper has an item about a little Scotch boy who, while playing on the docks, fell into the water and was with great difficulty rescued by a bystander.

"You ought to be very glad I was near by," said his rescuer.

"I am," replied the boy. "And I'm so glad ye got me out. What a bokin' I wad got from my mither if I'd been drowned!"

OIL AND GAS.

A Brief Sketch of the Formation, History and Production of Petroleum and Natural Gas.

METHODS OF PRODUCTION.—While petroleum has been produced for an immemorial period in China, Persia and many of the other countries of Europe and Asia, the methods used in the production, while interesting in an historical way, would be scarcely possible to treat with here, as the mode of production now in use in the United States is the one familiar to all readers of this article and the one which will be given.

Most of the wells of early history were hand-dug and some of them ranged to 500 feet in depth. The drilling tools; jars, casing, etc., used at the present day in well-drilling in the United States, were probably first invented by the Russells Bros., in West Virginia, in their efforts to supply the market with salt. After several unsuccessful attempts in getting through the rock, and finally, after eighteen months' work on the tools which finally overcame all difficulties they succeeded in drilling, tubing and working the first rock-bored salt well in the United States.

Afterward, in 1831, a man named Morris improved the jars, and that improvement is now used when deep boring is done.

The salt wells were all the while being drilled to greater depths and most of the deeper ones contained more or less petroleum and gas, and was permitted to escape, the oil especially, being considered a great nuisance. Afterwards, however, the gas was utilized for boiling the salt water and the petroleum began to be in demand in workshops and factories.

The use of petroleum created a demand, and in 1859 Col. E. L. Drake and associates drilled a well especially in search of petroleum that was supposed to be stored in the sand rocks near Titusville, Pa., and upon the success of that well the development of the great oil industry began.

Other wells had been drilled in search of salt brine and had shown the existence of petroleum, but most of these were abandoned on account of the oil, but afterwards some were pumped for oil alone.

Late in 1859 the Rathbone Bros. located on Burning Springs, run in West Virginia, and drilled a well solely for oil, which well was completed in 1860, and at the depth of 303 feet produced 100 barrels daily, and later another well was drilled, which was also a producer and brought the field into great prominence, which brought in a rush of people, repeating the history of gold mining camps.

Mrs. F. W. Fletcher, who has been visiting in Cynthiana, returned home Monday. Mrs. Patterson, her mother, accompanied her home and will visit here several weeks.

L. H. Whittaker has opened up a restaurant at his old stand on Main street, next door to the Fleenor building. He desires the patronage of all his old customers, as well as new ones.

The saw and grist mill belonging to Gambill, Stidham & Co., on Howard's Creek, was burned last Wednesday night, a week ago. The origin of the fire is unknown. Loss about $1,200, with no insurance.

Caleb Powers, far famed as being thrice convicted of the charge of complicity in the murder of Wm. Goebel, was taken from the Newport jail last Saturday and transferred to the State authorities and sent to the Georgetown jail.

J. M. Osborn, the furniture man, has rented the Terry building, formerly occupied by J. M. Osborn, which he will use for a sample room for new and up-to-date furniture, consisting of bed-room sets, side boards, roll top desks, chifforiers, etc.

The case vs. Alex. Jackson, sent from this county to Powell on a change of venue, has been reversed in the Court of Appeals. He has been granted bail in the sum of $1,000. He makes an appeal to his friends in this county to make him a bail bond, so he can return here and better prepare his case for a new trial.

H. L. Leete went to Beattyville today to make locations for some bridges for Lee county.

Miss Florence Patrick was called to her home in Stanton on account of the illness of her sister.

Come in during court and take advantage of one of our combination offers. We are sure you will not regret it.

Charles A. Walsh, Democratic National Committeeman from Iowa predicts that either Bryan or Hearst will be nominated for President in 1908.

The ice cream and strawberry supper at the Christian church Wednesday evening was the biggest success of its kind ever held in Jackson, and netted the church a neat little sum.

T. P. Cole, who has been living at Campion for some time, has rented G. B. Smith's house on the heights and will move here in a short time. Mr. Cole has accepted a position as clerk in the post office.

P. H. Jones, the natural artist, will take charge of my gallery from May 28th to June 6th. He will do first-class photo work at moderate prices. Call and see samples at my studio in the post office building. P. H. HARRIS.

Our serial, "The Two Vanrevels" closes with this issue. We hope our readers have enjoyed it. We will begin the publication of another story in a short time, which we think is very much better than this one. Begin with the first number.

Gardens and crops in this section are suffering for want of rain, and much damage is being done throughout the State by the continued drought. It is more than a month since rain fell in the western part of the State. The wheat crop has been cut almost in half.

The jury in the case of the Commonwealth against J. H. Dykes, for killing Andy Wilson, in the Dykes-Wilson feud, on the head of Red river, Wolfe County, June 1, 1905, after being out five days at Campion returned a verdict of not guilty. Wilson Walters, the leader on the Wilson side, was tried at the last term of the court and acquitted.

Last Friday and Saturday regular examination for teachers was held. About sixty applicants were before the board, which consisted of Superintendent Henry B. Nolde, Charles Terry, and Miss Cora Moore, Examiners. The grading of the papers had not been concluded in time to give the results in this issue, but we hope to be able to give the names of the successful ones in our next.

F. B. Endicott, our local piano man, reports business good. Among the recent sales made by him is a fine Everett piano to Capt. Everett Back, conductor on the O. & K. railroad; Harvard to W. Blanton; Harvard to C. L. Bartells, at O. & K. Junction, and a Dayton piano to Chas. Scott, London, Ky. Mr. Endicott attributes his success in the piano business to the splendid line he represents.

The Curt Jett case for the murder of James Cockrill will probably be tried at Cynthiana at the next term of court which begins May 28. Jett was given the death penalty in a former trial for this offense, but the Court of Appeals granted a new trial. He has been serving a life sentence in the Frankfort penitentiary for the murder of J. B. Marcus, but has been in the Cynthiana jail since the last term of court.

The folks of the Sunday school near the mouth of Quicksand have secured a nice organ, by assistance of friends in Jackson. It was purchased of F. B. Endicott, the hustling piano man. On Sunday, May 17, at 2:30 p. m., the organ will be dedicated. Miss Kraul, of the Soul Winners Society, will play. There will be special music. After Sunday school Rev. Edwin T. Preston will deliver a sermon, the subject being "Music." All are invited.

Britton Falls to Escape.

A wholesale attempt at jail delivery was made at Lexington at an early hour last Saturday morning, and had it not been for the bungling efforts of Richard Yelton, Bill Britton, under sentence for life for the murder of James Cockrill, at Jackson, and Benjamin Stewart, charged with the murder of James Stewart at Lexington, would perhaps now be free.

By the use of a case knife, which he used for saw, Yelton, a trustee, cut the bars on the third floor of the jail, and with a rope made from strips of his blanket, he attempted to lower himself to the ground. He fell and the noise made by the fall attracted the attention of people near by. Yelton escaped, but the crowd which gathered kept Stewart and Britton from getting away.

Our Opportunity.

There is probably no town in Kentucky in which the opportunities for investment are so great, nor the chances for success of the investment so assured as in Jackson; and this is a fact which ought to concern all our citizens. The building of good streets and the erection of good buildings are adding a value to the town which is permanent. Property in the county is becoming more valuable, and this also helps the town. With this comes the need of other things, which requires the co-operation of the people to hold it permanent.

We are getting just the stage where we ought to depend on Lexington and Winchester for our supplies. We can get them here. We have the material; we have the men; we have the money. What we need is some one to make a start. We can learn that to take advantage of our own opportunities is the surest road to success.

An Interesting Fight.

One of the most spectacular railroad fights in recent years is now being fought out in the courts between the Cumberland railroad, acting, it is said for the Southern, and the Louisville & Nashville. The object of both is to build from Barbourville to Jellico. Connection at the latter point will be made with the Southern, to be followed later by an extension northward, to connect with the Lexington & Eastern at Jackson. This would be one of the greatest extensions yet in consideration, and would include Knox, Clay, Owsley and Breathitt counties.

The fight between the two lines for the right to build is an interesting story. One of the roads secured an old right of way and attempted to build on it, but was prevented by the other by injunction. Then, after the Cumberland finished its surveys, the Louisville & Nashville made another which wound across, the former at intervals and criss-crossed it many times. At these points it bought the right of way, and for a time it appeared as though it had successfully circumvented its rival. The case is now being tried, and it is said that a compromise may be reached, by which one road may be built, to be used by both lines.

Brief accounts of the plans that are being made, and those which are already being carried into execution, show that Eastern Kentucky has started on a railroad boom, the like of which has not been witnessed in two decades.

A. A. Copus, of Clay Hole, was here Thursday.

Marriage Licenses.

The following marriage licenses have been issued during the past week:

Sherman Thorp and Miss Emma Bowman, of Monroe; Linville Gross and Miss Letitia Jacobs, both of Shoulder Blade; Cal Ely and Miss Alice May Saly, both of Rousseau; J. S. Trett and Miss Louellen Robinson, both of Jackson.

The Sick.

Mrs. C. B. Thompson has been very sick with cholera morbus for several days.

Mrs. W. R. Bradshaw was quite sick the first of the week, but is now improving.

A. H. Patton, who has been quite ill for the past week, was able to sit in his office Thursday.

Mrs. George W. Deane was suddenly taken very sick last Sunday evening with a chills followed by a fever, but at the counts she had improved.

THE DEATH ROW.

Daniel McDaniels, an old Confederate soldier, aged 63, died at the home of J. D. Jones, near Frozen, Tuesday. His remains were buried Wednesday in the old Lawson graveyard, by the side of his mother.

Lewis Gross, of War Creek, died at his home last Sunday night after a short illness of cholera morbus. He was one of the leading citizens of his neighborhood and belonged to several secret orders, among which are the Masons, Odd Fellows and Jr. Order American Workmen.

Mrs. Lucinda Lutes, of Princeton, died last week. She was stricken with paralysis while going from Ed Lots to her home, about one mile distant. She fell across the fence and lay there 22 hours before any one found her. She was still alive when found and lived until the next morning. She was 79 years of age.

A dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer, dated May 22, from Hazel Green, says: Bascom Perkins and Bert Nickell, two young men, went to the house of Press Moore and called for a drink of water. Moore, after filling the cup, opened the door for them, and Perkins, pointing his pistol at Moore, drove him out of the house. After he left, Perkins pulled Mrs. Moore from the bed and criminally assaulted her, it is said. After Moore returned to the house with assistance Mrs. Moore was found in an unconscious condition and the men gone. A posse was organized, and if they are captured it is thought they will be punished.

John C. M. Day, of Winchester, the promoter and builder of the Mountain Central Railway, from Campton Junction to Campton, was here Monday. The road is now completed to Pine Ridge, within five miles of Campton. Mr. Day says he will have trains running to Campton by July 4th.

CHAPTER XX.

It was between twilight and candlelight, the gentle half hour when the kind old sandman steals up the stairs of houses where children are, when rustic lovers strok the soft and quiet steps down country lanes and old backroads are lengthened and dream of the things that might have been. Through the silence of the clear dusk came the whistle of the evening boat that was to bear Tom Vanrevel through the first stage of his long journey to the front of war, and the sound fell cheerlessly upon Miss Betty's ear as she stood leaning against the sandal among the lilac bushes. Her attitude was not one of reverie, yet she stood very still—so still that in the wan splendor of the faded afterglow one might have passed her and not have seen her against the gray stone, and as bare from the elbow, lay across the face of the dial with curved fingers clutching the coracles; her head drooping not languidly, but with tension, her eyes half closed, showing the lashes against a pale cheek; and thus motionless, leaning on the stone in the dusk, she might have been sorrow's self.

She did not move; there was not even a flicker of the eyelashes, when a step sounded on the gravel of the driveway, and Vanrevel came slowly from the house. He stopped at a little distance from her, hat in hand. He was very thin, worn and sad looking, and in the failing light might have been taken for a tall, gentle ghost, yet his shoulders were squared and he held himself as straight as he had the first time she had ever seen him.

"Mrs. Tamberry told me I should find you here," he said hesitatingly. "I have come to say goodby."

She did not turn toward him nor did more than her lips move as she answered. "Goodby," and her tone was neither kind nor cold, but held no meaning whatever, not even indifference.

There was an interval of silence. Then, without surprise, he walked sadly to the gate, paused, whistled a short tune and returned with a quick, firm step.

"I will not go until I know that I do not misunderstand you," he said, "not even if there is only the slightest chance that I do. I want to say something to you if you will let me, though naturally I remember you once asked me never to speak to you again. It is only that I have thought you did that under a misconception or else I should still obey you if you—"

"What is it if you wish to say?" Her tone was unchanged.

"Only that I think the hardest time for you has passed, and that"—

"To you?" she interrupted.

"Yes," he returned, "the saddest of your life. I think it has gone forever. And I think that what will come to you will be all you wish for. There will be a little time of waiting—"

"Waiting for what?"

He drew a step nearer, and his voice became very gentle. "Cummings and I reach our regiment tomorrow night and then, in the same night, we'll be all the way to the war, and we'll go the more bravely because each one of them has you in his heart—not one but will be a little soldier because of you. I want you to believe that if all of them don't come back, yet the one who comes back you think of and tear for will return. For, you see, Cralley told me what you said to him when—he met you here the last time. I have no way to know which of them you meant; but—he will come back to you! I am sure of it, because I believe you are to be happy. And you've had your allotment of pain!"

"After all, there is so little to regret. The town seems empty without its young men, yet you may rejoice, remembering how bravely they went and how gayly. They will sing half the way to Vera Cruz. You think it strange I should say there is so little to regret when I've just laid away my best friend. It was his own doctrine, and the selfish personal grief and sorrows grow less when I think of the gallant and he made, for it was as who went away most bravely and jauntily of all. Cralley was no friend unless I let him teach me to go to effect, so be sure he would have told you what tell you now, that all is well with the world."

"Young," she cried, with a quick intake of breath through closed teeth.

"I will do anything in the world to please you," he answered sorrowfully. "Do you mean that?"

She turned at last and faced him, but without lifting her eyes. "Why did you come to say goodby to me?"

"I don't understand."

"I think you do." Her voice was cold, but it was suddenly given a perceptible that she was trembly, head to heel.

an exclamation of remorse broke him.

"You came here to be told, I—" she said. "You said goodby once before. Did you come to see—what you saw then?"

He fell back in utter amazement, but she advanced upon him swiftly. "What is that?" she cried.

The unfortunate young man could make no reply and remained unable to defend himself from her inexplicable attack.

"You have not forgotten," she went on impetuously. "It was in the crowd just before they gave you the flag. You saw—I know you saw—and it killed me with the shame of it! Now you come to me to look at the same thing again, and the boat waiting for you! Is it in revenge for that night at the Jardine's? Perhaps this sounds wild to you—I can't help—but why should you try to make it harder for me?"

From the porch came a strong voice.

"Vanrevel!"

"God know I haven't meant to," said Tom in bitter pain. "I don't understand. It's Cummings calling for me. I'll go at once. I'd hoped, stupidly enough, that you would tell me whom it was you meant when you spoke to Cralley, so that I could help to make it surer that he'd come back to you. But I've only annoyed you. And you were here away from the house—avoiding me and fearing that I—"

"You're well!" shouted William. (Mrs. Tamberry had not told Lieutenant Cummings where to find Miss Betty.)

"Fearing? Yes?"

"Fearing that I might discover you?"

He let his eyes rest on her loveliness once more, and as he saw that she still trembled he extended his hand toward her in a gesture of infinite tenderness, and with head erect and body straight, set his face manfully toward the house.

He had taken three strides when his heart stopped beating at an ineffable touch on his sleeve, for, with a sharp cry, she sprang to him, and then, once more, among the lilac bushes where he had seen her.

Had a Close Call.

"A dangerous surgical operation, involving the removal of a malignant ulcer, as large as half a hand, from my daughter's hip, was prevented by the application of Buckle's Arnica Salve" says A. C. Stuckel, of Milledge, W. Va. "Persistent use of the salve completely cured it." Ours cuts, burns and injuries. 25¢ at Jackson Drug Co. Price 50¢.

A Household Glue.

A glue which will resist the action of water is made by boiling half a pound of common glue in one quart of skim milk. Another method is to soak the glue till soft in cold water and then to dissolve it on the stove in linseed oil.

Made Happy for Life.

Great happiness came into the home of S. C. Blair, school superintendent at St. Albans, W. Va., when his daughter was restored from the dreadfully painful condition. He says: "My little daughter had St. Vitus' Dance which yielded to no treatment, but grew steadily worse until as a last resort we tried Electric Bitters; and I rejoice to say, three bottles effected a complete cure." Quick, sure cure for nervous complaints, general debility, female weaknesses. Impoverished blood and malaria. Guaranteed by Jackson Drug Co. Price 50¢.

Oh, it must be fine to be a poet!"

Best for Women and Children.

On account of its mild action and pleasant taste Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup is especially recommended for women and children. It does not nauseate or gripes like pills and ordinary cathartics. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup aids digestion and stimulates the liver and bowels without irritating them. Remember the name Orino and refuse substitutes. Jackson Drug Company.

Johnny.

— My mamma can cure people by the laying on of hands.

Tommy—I don't believe it.

Johny—Well, it's a fact, just the same. She cured me of the cigarette habit that way.

Her mama followed him. "Ah, it's been—just if all of them don't come back, yet the one who comes back you think of and tear for will return. ## Was Wasting Away.

"I had been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years," writes Robert R. Watts, of Salem, Mo. "I lost flesh and never felt well and doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggest without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being overexerted. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure. Jackson Drug Company.

Souffle Potatoes.

For souffle potatoes boil six good-sized potatoes in their skins, and when cooked peel and wash them quickly, and add one tablespoonful of butter and half a pint of cream, a teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of pepper. Beat until light and smooth. Beat the whites of four eggs to a stiff froth and stir gently into the potatoes. Heap the mixture on greased paper, a spoonful at a time. Dust with grated cheese and bake a golden brown.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the white plague that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption.

Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is in a yellow package.

Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and insist upon having it. Jackson Drug Company.
